

Colliers Continues Growth in Boston With Addition of Veteran Cushman & Wakefield Advisor, Kevin Hanna

Hanna Joins Team of Talented Professionals Focused on Increasing Colliers International's Boston Presence

BOSTON, MA, SEPTEMBER 17, 2020 – Leading global commercial real estate services firm Colliers International announced today it has hired veteran real estate professional Kevin Hanna as Executive Vice President in its Boston office. Hanna brings with him over three decades of advisory and transaction experience and will continue to specialize in representing tenants, landlords and developers across the full spectrum of the office, industrial and technology sectors. Hanna focuses primarily on Greater Boston's south suburban and metrowest real estate markets and will join the existing Southwest advisory team comprised of Stephen Woelfel, Jr., Kevin Brawley, PJ Foster, Cathy Minnerly, Ovar Osvold, Sean Hannigan and John Real.

A Boston College alumnus, Hanna began working in real estate in 1988 and has spent the majority of his advisory career with Cushman & Wakefield. To date, he has represented an impressive roster of tenants and landlords, including DHL, Park Place Technologies, Virgin Pulse, Williams Sonoma, Haemonetics, National Development, UBS, TA Realty, King Street Properties and Ferris Capital, to name a few.

David Goodhue, Executive Managing Director and Market Leader of Colliers Boston, shared that "bringing Kevin to Colliers is a huge win for the company. He is highly respected in the business and offers a depth of experience and expertise that will complement our client-centric approach and values. We are confident that despite these uncertain times we will continue to recruit top tier professionals and provide them with opportunities to thrive here long-term."

With Hanna's arrival as Colliers Boston's seventh new hire in 2020 – many of which occurred amid the pandemic – Colliers continues making a statement in the brokerage community with an increasingly deep and versatile employee roster across all business units.
